Junta May Seek Return Of King

By CHRIS ELIOU
Associated Press Writer
ATHENS (AP) — Speculation grew today that the Greek military junta was trying to find some formula to bring King Constantine back from exile and restore a measure of normalcy to the apprehensive nation.

This speculation came as Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinellis reached Rome and went at once to the Greek Embassy. Constantine, who fled to Rome with his family after his counter-coup against the regime failed Wednesday, last was reported in the embassy.

One highly placed official in Rome said: "The indications are that a compromise solution of the Greek crisis may be in the making."

Informed sources said the military strongmen need the (Turn To Page Six)

Urges Court Change Mind On CATV Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has urged the Supreme Court to change its mind and defer a decision on application of copyright laws to community antenna television systems.

U.S. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold told the court in a memorandum that a ruling could delay enactment by Congress of a law to cover the matter.

Griswold's suggestion followed an invitation by the court Dec. 4 for an expression of the Justice Department's views. That same day the court agreed to hold a hearing on the copyright issue.

Griswold said that if CATV systems were held liable for all copyright infringements the results could be a "substantial adverse effect on the viability and the continued growth of CATV as a valuable adjunct of live broadcasting."

On the other hand, he said, if CATV systems were held immune in all instances from copyright liabilities, this could provide CATV with an unfair advantage over some competitors such as new UHF stations, and might unduly deter the creative incentive which copyright protection is designed to foster.

He suggested that the court revoke its order granting review to Portnightly Corp., and hold the case on its merits "for a reasonable time" pending congressional action.

The House has considered such a measure, and a bill now is pending before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Plan To Get Negroes Into Guard Succeeds

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Guard leaders say a test program in New Jersey for stimulating Negro enlistments is a success. But a decision on extending the program nationwide awaits a survey on Negro attitudes toward military service.

"This is one program that has worked," Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson said of the New Jersey pilot program. Wilson is chief of the National Guard Bureau.

Maj. Gen. James F. Cantwell, head of the New Jersey Guard, reported steady progress in recruiting Negroes, and added: "We think we've gotten over the hump of educating the Negro community, gaining their confidence, convincing them this is not just a gimmick."

Two Negro Guard officers, Lt. Col. William S. Frye and Maj. Carl E. Briscoe, reported a gratifying reception from Negro

24 Draft Cards Mutilated, Sent Back In State

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Comdr. John H. Hammack, Illinois state director of Selective Service, said Thursday there are 24 registrants who mutilated and returned draft cards and notices of classification.

Their cases are in various stages of processing by local boards to whom the papers were returned.

Eight are in Chicago, four in Cook County outside Chicago and 12 downstate.

Peter T. Laurel of Joliet, who was ordered for induction, failed to report, and his case has been referred to the U.S. attorney for the Northern District of Illinois for prosecution, Hammack said.

Seven have been declared delinquent by their local boards and are subject to processing for induction in the usual manner.

Hammack said these, including points of registration, are Kevin J. Berland of Chicago; John A. Apperson of Berwyn; Richard J. Ayers of Wheaton; Stephen Schmidt of Wheaton; Richard L. Virgil of St. Charles; Richard G. Soderstrom of St. Charles; and Randall E. Bates of Decatur.

Aid Hassle May Delay Adjourning

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A last-minute hassle over foreign aid may endanger prompt congressional adjournment after Senate and House conferees agreed on other remaining major bills.

With a chance to go home after more than 11 months in session, both the House and Senate expected to approve today compromises on:

—An appropriation of $1.77 billion for the antipoverty program that is only slightly below the amount the administration said it needed, although well below the $2.06 billion it originally wanted.

—A $9.3 billion, two-year extension of the Elementary and Secondary School Act worked out in what one Senate conferee called "the toughest conference I've ever been in."

Mystery Blast Damages Car Of Politician

CHICAGO (AP) — A mysterious explosion Thursday damaged the car of Fred M. Morelli, politician and businessman whose home was damaged by a bomb less than a month ago.

The right rear window of Morelli's unoccupied car was blown out as it sat in a parking lot at 13th Street and Indiana Avenue.

No one was injured. The explosion was first believed to have been caused by a bomb. However, Sgt. Edward Neville of the police bomb and arson squad said he could find no evidence of a bomb.

Neville said it may have been an explosion of a defective window.

The car's rear wheel covers were knocked off and the fender skirts were damaged. The hub caps were knocked off a station wagon parked next to it.

On Nov. 30 a bomb exploded at the front door of the South side home of Morelli, 59. No one was injured.

Morelli is part owner of the Coliseum, historic meeting hall at 15th Street and Wabash Avenue. He is a former 1st Ward Democratic committeeman and half brother of Judge Daniel A. Cavelli of Circuit Court.

Morelli said he had no explanation for the attempts on his life.

Social Security Hike Goes To LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate sent to President Johnson today a Social Security bill carrying record cash benefit boosts, the highest payroll tax in history and tighter restrictions on welfare programs.

LBJ Signs Meat Bill Into Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signs into law today the bill that will compel thousands of meat plants operating in intrastate commerce to meet the same standards as federally inspected plants.

The signing was scheduled for 11 a.m. in the East Room of the White House.

At present, only plants selling their products across state lines are subject to federal inspection. The new law will require states to adopt inspection programs on a par with federal inspection.

States will have up to two years—three, if they need the extra time and are making substantial progress—to put into operation satisfactory state inspection programs. In those states that fail to meet the deadline the intrastate plants may become subject to federal inspection.

About 15,000 plants will be affected by the higher standards.

Regular Airline Service Returns To Midway

CHICAGO (AP) — Regularly scheduled airline passenger service returned today to Midway Airport after a four and one-half month layoff for completion of a $4 million construction program.

Midway, on Chicago's Southwest Side, has been revitalized to take some of the traffic volume from O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest, on the Northwest Side.

United Airlines will offer two jet departures daily from Midway to New York's La Guardia Airport, Washington National Airport and Minneapolis-St. Paul. United was the only airline operating at Midway from July 1964 to August 1, 1967. The airline suspended operations in August to allow construction work on Midway's two runways.

Martin Innes, United's regional vice president, said the two 6,400-foot runways have been completely resurfaced and backfilled. New aprons, taxiways and parking ramps have been installed.

All service was halted at Midway in 1962 when the advent of jet aircraft presented safety problems on the airport's short landing strips. Midway now has the capacity to handle many jet aircraft.

Ten other airlines are scheduled to resume Midway operations in April.

Pope Says 'Peace Not Pacifism'

By DAVID MAZZARELLA
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI appealed today for worldwide prayers for peace every New Year's Day but rebuked cowards who refuse to fight for justice and liberty.

"Peace is not pacifism," he said, in a papal statement.

"It is to be hoped," the Pope declared, "(that) the exaltation of the ideal of peace may not favor the cowardice of those who fear it may be their duty to give their life for the service of their own country and of their own brothers when these are engaged in the defense of justice and liberty, and who seek only the flight from their responsibility and the risks that are necessarily involved in the accomplishment of great duties and generous exploits."

"Peace... does not mask a base and slothful concept of life but is proclaimed the highest and most universal values of life—truth, justice, freedom, love."

Plans War On Gary's Slums, Air Pollution

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Hatcher, mayor-elect of Gary, Ind., has outlined some of the details in the war he has declared on his city's slums, crime and air pollution.

The 34-year-old Negro lawyer said in an interview Thursday night he plans to ask high school students to donate their summer vacations to working in the slums and tutoring other children.

"Through this we hope to get people who don't have jobs trained in basic skills like carpentry, so they can earn money for themselves and help their families," he said.

Hatcher said he had been meeting with members of Gary's business community—"In Gary, that means the white community"—and that "right now I couldn't say they have a true understanding of the depth of the problem, but I think they are trying to understand and given an opportunity I think they will respond in a most meaningful way."

"Sometimes," added the man who has billed his election as a constructive example of black power, "I'm not so sure I understand all the depths myself."

Hatcher said he planned to ask businessmen to "do a lot of things," among them form non-profit corporations to build and renovate slum housing, and to find "places in their corporations for people who are unemployed."

Because their work is effective, it is not unusual for the Viet Cong to offer rewards for team leaders like Murrell. But the amount offered for the sergeant was exceptionally high "because he did an exceptional job," a Marine officer said.

Another reward of nearly $2,000 was put on the head of Staff Sgt. Carrol P. Soape, 26, of Amarillo, Tex., who before returning to the United States three months ago established a strong combined action force at Huoa Phu, three miles north of Da Nang.

When Murrell returns to Vietnam next month, he probably won't get his old job back, officers said. But the villagers of Tuy Loan made it clear they'd be glad to have him back.

Villagers Could Have Sold Marine For $1,750

By ROBERT OHMAN
Associated Press Writer

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Dead or alive, the Viet Cong poster said, we want U.S. Marine Sgt. Marvin Murrell and we'll pay $1,750 for him. Instead, Murrell got 30 days home leave and a going-away party from the villagers who could have sold his life.

When it was too dark for poster reading, the Viet Cong brought out bullhorns and broadcast the reward announcement. They wanted the 21-year-old sergeant badly. He was just too good at his job of turning the Vietnamese in the hamlet of Tuy Loan into militiamen.

Although the $1,750 might have seemed like millions to the impoverished villagers, they told Murrell about the Communist offer and kept working by his side.

The sergeant is back in Syracuse, N.Y., on a 30-day bonus leave he received for signing up for another six-month tour in Vietnam after spending more than two years in the country. The villagers he worked with

Targets Vital Bridges

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes returned to Hanoi today for the second day in a row to attack key bridges linking the capital of North Vietnam with supply lines running northeast to Red China.

U.S. officers said Air Force F-105 Thunderchiefs from bases in Thailand hammered the Canal des Rapides bridge five miles northeast of the center of Hanoi. On Thursday U.S. pilots attacked Hanoi's biggest bridge, the mile-long Paul Doumer railroad and highway structure.

Other details of today's raids were not immediately available. (Turn To Page Six)

2,600 Miners Idled By Strike At Ten Mines

BENTON, Ill. (AP) — More than 2,600 miners were idle today as the result of a wildcat strike that affected 10 coal mines.

The walkout began at Old Ben Coal Co. No. 9 mine at West Frankfort and spread to three other company mines at Sesser and Benton.

Picket lines later stopped production at Freeman Coal Co. mines at Waltonville, Johnston City, West Frankfort and Farmerville, and the Bell and Zoller Coal Co. mine No. 4 at Zeigler.

About 30 men were idle at the Peabody Coal Co. utility mine at Pittsburg.

The strike, which United Mine Workers officials said was unauthorized, centers on a job assignment at the No. 9 West Frankfort mine.

Striking miners said a younger man was hired as hoisting engineer over an employee with seniority rights.

Twenty men were discharged at the Old Ben West Frankfort mine on grounds they were members of an unauthorized picket line.

Blast In New Mexico

The thermonuclear explosion some four-fifths of a mile below the surface of a remote area in New Mexico on December 10 was substantially greater than the atomic blast which leveled Hiroshima. But its release of a force equivalent to that in 26,000 tons of TNT was for quite a different purpose—to determine the feasibility of thus unlocking vast reserves of natural gas.

Some months will pass before the results can be fully appraised: that much time must be allowed to permit radioactivity to decay to safe levels. Government and industry officials responsible for this joint venture are confident, however, that Project Gasbuggy will prove its worth. Studies have given good reason to believe that the explosion's shattering action will both release gas from almost impermeable rock formations and provide a huge reservoir for its collection. The Bureau of Mines estimates that if this recovery method is successful it will virtually double the nation's proved recoverable reserves of natural gas.

The test, part of the Atomic Energy Commission's Plowshare program, also has a wider significance. Technical knowledge gained will help in similar projects involving shale oil and copper ore.

The undertaking is welcome evidence of progress in the peacetime uses of nuclear energy. It must be noted, however, that such tests also have a bearing on the development of more sophisticated nuclear weapons. The device exploded in New Mexico, like that other a quarter of a century ago, was of keen interest to the military. Once again, one of modern man's greatest dilemmas has been illustrated: Nuclear force can build our world or destroy it.

Justice Without Mercy

The law has made a terrible demand on one sworn to uphold it. Judge John F. Clair Jr. of Painesville, Ohio. The jury in the trial of 16-year-old Fred Esherrick Jr. found the boy guilty of first degree murder in the slaying of his father by adoption, and did not recommend mercy. When such a verdict is returned in Ohio, state law requires the judge to hand down a sentence of death.

The emotional aspects of this case make it a harrowing illustration of why many believe capital punishment ought to be abolished as a barbaric survival from a less enlightened time. The lad on trial for his life sobbed and said "I'm scared" when the jury foreman read the verdict. The judge, his eyes filled with tears, reportedly whispered, "I have never had to pronounce such a sentence." One of the prosecuting attorneys was quoted as acknowledging that he felt "rotten."

These things serve to place the austere and impartial workings of the law in human perspective. There is no question but that young Esherrick committed a terrible crime; in an apparent fit of anger, he stabbed both his mother and father with a bayonet, and the father died. But there is a question whether the best interests of a purportedly humane society will be served by sending this boy to the electric chair.

The son's death cannot restore the father's life. Will it deter others, similarly goaded by unreasoning anger, from striking a murderous blow? Will society benefit in any way by exacting a life for a life? We say no. Justice un-leavened by mercy is not true justice.

We Honor Woman's Intuition, What About Cop's?

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — So uncanny is woman's intuition only a fool would stand in her way.
But what about a cop's? How often does he guess right and how much elbow room should he have to work out his hunches?
An off-duty policeman, investigating a noise outside his apartment, finds a man tiptoeing down the hallway. The fellow claims to be calling on a lady friend. She's married and he'd rather not give her name.

Unimpressed by the pass at chivalry, the policeman finds two wrenches and six picks in the man's pocket—the tools of a burglar.

A detective, 39 years on the force, watches two men on a street corner. Within 10 or 12 minutes they make five or six trips over to the window of a jewelry store.

He senses they are "casing" it, searches both and finds loaded revolvers in their overcoats.

In neither instance did the officer know at the start that a crime had been committed.

Nor, at that time, did they have enough evidence to support an arrest.

In fact, the arrests eventually made had nothing to do with the jewelry store or the actual commission of a burglary. Instead they were for illegal possession of weapons and illegal possession of burglars' tools.

The officers got the necessary evidence by acting on their suspicions, their intuition or a "sixth sense."

As Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black suggested this week, an officer who finds a man lurking in a dark alley near a basement door in the middle of a rainy night might reasonably suspect "he is not there on a holy mission."

But what does the Constitution permit the policeman to do? Does arousal of his suspicions justify forcibly stopping people on the street and searching them?

The Supreme Court, looking again into the way policemen operate, spent much of two days on the subject earlier this week. Everyone—the justices, prosecutors and civil liberties lawyers—agreed a policeman has a right to question someone who appears suspicious.

But there was almost no agreement on what the officer should be allowed to do if he doesn't get an answer or doesn't believe what he's told.

Unless he can establish "probable cause" — the Fourth Amendment's somewhat nebulous term—to make an arrest, he can do nothing, one civil liberties lawyer contended.

The fact is most of the people police stop, question and search turn out to be innocent.

For instance, according to New York City Police Department figures, of 1,617 people stopped and frisked by police in a little less than three years, 168 were charged with a crime—only about 1 of 10.

If stop-and-frisk is such a powerful deterrent to crime, Justice Thurgood Marshall observed tongue-in-cheek: "One way would be to stop everyone and see if they are armed."

The Justice Department has told the court temporary invasion of privacy is part of the price one should pay as a good citizen.

The NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, on the other hand, has advised that stop-and-frisk widens the gap between the poor and the police and is a potential source of conflict.

What the court will do is, at this point, anyone's guess.

James Marlow is on vacation.

Democracy Is Viet Way Of Life

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The other afternoon a man asked this reporter if it wasn't impossible to create a democracy in an Asian country such as South Vietnam.

He says he believes elections in South Vietnam are bound to be meaningless and government by the people impossible regardless of how sincerely the United States attempts to encourage freedom and self-rule.

This man is not alone. In the past few years more than a hundred men and women have asked me, "Are Asians capable of democracy?"

Somehow, many Americans and Europeans believe Asians are somehow different and not suited by nature or tradition to democratic ways. There seems to be a belief that Asians are in some unexplained way radically different from Americans, Europeans and other Westerners.

A study of Asian history gives a very different picture. Particularly the detailed history of the area which is now South Vietnam is the story of men much like those who peopled Western Europe and the United States.

Before the French took over in South Vietnam, the people in the hamlets and villages had a high degree of self-rule. They selected their village and hamlet officials locally.

Though the central government of what is now South Vietnam was not democratic, that government, in the main, left the hamlets and villages to manage their own affairs, carry on their own government, solve their own problems.

For many years before the French came, the local South Vietnamese citizens — though poorly armed and not well-organized nationally — had fought so zealously for their communities and their local constitutions that the Chinese, who many times conquered what is now North Vietnam, were never able to exercise any real control over the South.

The French, themselves, found the south a continuous problem because of the independence of these villagers who ruled themselves.

The South Vietnamese did not destroy these democratic institutions in the southern villages. It was the French who finally, after much travail, destroyed them by military force.

In many years of effort, the French gradually uprooted this village self-rule. The village and hamlet governments were subordinated and taken over by French-appointed officials from the capital. That is, democracy in the villages was slowly smothered.

Headstander's Crashing Falls Shake Up Roommate

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: As a freshman at a large university in North Carolina, I have encountered some pretty weird people since I arrived on campus. But I am not especially bothered by them because I expected to run into some oddballs.

My problem is my roommate. Every time I walk into the room, he is there—standing on his head. I have become somewhat accustomed to this sight, although it was not easy. But the annoying thing is that he makes a terrific racket when he falls. When I am studying, these crashing sounds really shake me up. When I am asleep, they awaken me.

The students below us and on either side of us have complained, but my roommate says these headstands are vital to his physical well-being. He also insists that they help him think more clearly and that his grades have improved since he started. Well, maybe his grades have improved, but mine have become worse. Please suggest something.—FLUNKIN' FLOYD

Dear Floyd: Standing on one's head does improve the circulation and many headstanders swear by this exercise. The noise, however, is something else again. Suggest that your roommate put his laundry bag or a mattress or some pillows on the floor and fall on them.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been going with this young man for almost two years. He has told me he loves me and has asked me to marry him one day. The problem: We have broken up three times over a woman twice his age.

The woman has a fine husband, yet she must see my boyfriend at least five nights a week. He goes to her house to talk for an hour or two after he leaves here. He frequently invites her to join us when we go to the theater or the movies if her husband is out of town, although he knows I do not like the idea.
He says this woman is like a mother to him, yet his own mother is so lovely and fine I don't know why he needs a substitute.

Is he having an affair with the old crow or am I nuts? I've told him how I feel about this "friendship," but he can't seem to stay away from her. What do you think?—SUE

Dear Sue: I think your boyfriend's attachment to this senior citizen is abnormal and unhealthy. He doesn't sound like very promising marriage material. Doll, in fact the whole thing is like forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: We were married recently in a private ceremony. Only the immediate families were present.

When we returned from our honeymoon, we received two letters informing us that donations to a cancer foundation had been made in our honor. We have heard of donations in memory of beloved ones who have died, but never have we heard of donations to honor newlyweds. It seems somewhat morbid and in poor taste. Please comment.—UNINFORMED

Dear Uninformed: Donations to commemorate happy events, such as weddings, anniversaries and births are not only proper, they make better sense than an eleventh candy dish or a twelfth pair of booties.

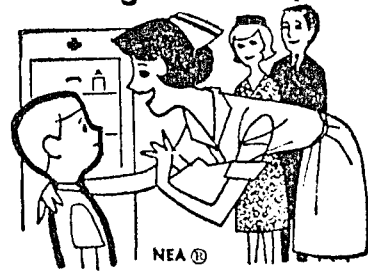

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 15 — Born today, you are a methodical person who never jumps into the midst of anything. You believe in starting at the very beginning and working your way step-by-step to the end—so much so that even when taking on a project midway in its development, you are tempted to ignore all that has already been accomplished on it and to start all over again. You will have to curb this tendency, however, for if you give in to it you will never take advantage of shortcuts.

You believe that everything should be undertaken strictly according to plan; thus it is seldom that you are involved in any rash action. On the other hand, you may well forfeit much in life that is interesting and exciting merely because you refuse to act without first mulling over your decisions. Often, you think beyond the point of action and thus miss out.

You have a great deal of pride and will not have your name associated with anything that you consider slipshod. Indeed, you go further and seek perfection. You must take care, however, that in being so prideful of your work you do not overlook opportunities that are hidden beneath very unprepossessing circumstances.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Let others take the lead today. You will be more successful in your relationships if you are satisfied with a back seat.

Reither On Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN — Beardstown now has a man and wife flying team, both members of the local Flying Club and both "soloists."

This came about a few days ago when Mrs. Charles Barron made her solo flight at Greater Beardstown Airport. Mr. Barron, who is a musician, a sign painter of outstanding talent and a riverboatman also, has been flying for some time and did his solo hop quite a while ago.

The development and expansion of the Greater Beardstown Airport has resulted in a "shot in the arm" for the flight game here and a comparatively good number of local people are "up in the air" regularly.

The Flying Club has its own plane and members use it constantly — at about $9 an hour. Bill McHaley, Jr., is local airport manager and he has things humming at the field where hangers have recently been completed and where he operates a maintenance shop. McHaley and Bob Burley are among those who give flying lessons.

Ivan Cox and Workman McKenna were among the charter members of the Flying Club and both made solo flights several months ago.

Several local industries, including Bohn Aluminum, Oscar Mayer Trinity Steel, CIPS and others are utilizing the field regularly.

Law enforcement officials here announced this week that all bicycles in use on local streets must be properly equipped, and that the riders must obey traffic laws relating to motor vehicles.

Captain T. W. Birdsell detailed the equipment necessary as including lamps on all bikes used at night, including a white and red light that emits 500 feet. Bikes must be equipped also with bells or other signals, but may not be equipped with sirens or whistles.

Parents of children or guardians of children are for bidden to authorize riding of bikes which are not properly equipped, Birdsell warned.

The John Hartmans are completing a nice new house at the corner of 12th and Monroe streets just across the alley from their home at 205 East 12th street. The old house that stood there has been torn down. It was occupied by scores of Beardstown families and finally got in a bad state of "disrepair."

Principal Charles Sullivan is on top of the "case" involving the discovery of stolen peach brandy in a high school lad's locker. Shakedown and locker inspection were involved and the school population is one less these days, with proper corrective and disciplinary action coming by school authorities.

A thorough and complete investigation has been completed and authorities and parents are properly disturbed by the incident.

For the convenience of Christmas mailer patrons, the Beardstown post office will be open until 4 p.m. Saturday instead of closing at noon. Most POs in the area will be open throughout the day.

Guam is the largest and most populous of the Mariana Islands. The female cell releases as many as 10 million eggs.

M'Murray Pupil Wins Scholarship In Pre-Medicine

George P. Schmid, son of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Schmid Sr., 748 Deerpath Dr., Deerfield, Ill., was named winner of a financial scholarship in recognition of his outstanding scholarship in the field of pre-medicine at MacMurray College.

President Gordon E. Michelson presented the citation to Schmid in a formal convocation ceremony last week honoring two nationally prominent physicians. The two were: Dr. Leona Baumgartner, Professor of Social Medicine, Harvard Medical School and Dr. Philip R. Lee, Assistant Secretary for Health, Education and Welfare.

In presenting the scholarship President Michelson commented, "Last year American medical schools graduated 7,575 doctors. It has been suggested by various agencies, governmental and professional, that within the next decade, just to maintain current conditions of medical care, the number of doctors will have to be doubled.

"We at MacMurray College propose to do what we can to aid in the solution of this tremendous national problem. We seek to expand the number of students enrolled in our pre-medical curriculum, now one of the best in the United States.

"We also feel MacMurray College has a unique contribution to make to the medical profession and to our society by providing a liberal education for some of our future doctors.

"To stimulate interest and to foster excellence, I am pleased to announce a new award honoring the field of medicine. This award is given at the discretion of the President and with the recommendations of the Biology and Chemistry Departments, to the outstanding pre-medical student. It recognizes superior scholarship and the promise of future contributions as a physician.

This award is $750 per semester for four semesters, contingent upon the maintenance of excellence in his studies. I am pleased to present this award to George Schmid who has the highest scholastic record among our junior pre-medical students."

MacMurray is a private four year liberal arts college of more than 1,000 students.

"WE ROB BANKS"

Clyde was the leader. Bonnie wrote poetry. C. W. was a Myrna Loy fan who had a bluish tattoo on his chest. Buck told corny jokes and carried a Kodak. Blanche was a preacher's daughter who kept her fingers in her ears during the gunfights. They played checkers and photographed each other incessantly. On Sunday nights, they listened to Eddie Cantor on the radio. All in all, they killed 18 people. They were the strangest damned gang you ever heard of.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

DON'T TURN CHRISTMAS GLITTER INTO NEW YEAR LITTER. The holiday season is crisis time in the national war against litter. The Keep America Beautiful people are gloomily predicting that unless Americans this year make a conscientious effort to hold clutter down, the aftermath of festivities will be nine million cubic feet of discarded trees, decorations, boxes and gift wrappings dumped on streets and countryside—enough to fill Santa's bag three million times.

ships were Dr. C. F. Crossley Jr. and Charles Gabriel of Las Vegas. They are both tournament players.

Up to five years ago Charley Gabriel lived in Fort Worth and won many regional events in Texas. In fact, he played with both Jacobys on many occasions. Since that time he has done mathematical work for the atomic energy commission and has had no time for tournament bridge.

Cap Crossley is a practicing physician and a member of a real bridge playing family. He and his father are both life masters, his two oldest sons won the teen-age pairs at the summer nationals a couple of years ago. Mrs. Crossley and Mrs. Gabriel are also tournament players and led the routing section for their husbands.

Once we were eliminated we joined their routing section. Charley is an old friend and the Crossleys are just about as nice people as you can find to play bridge with or against. Not that we had anything against the winners. It was a pleasure to meet Clark Merritt and Robert Krost, but after all, they were strangers to us and Cap and Charlie weren't.

In their semifinal match their appointments were vulnerable after making a part score on the first hand and pegging out on the second. Charley decided it was time for some fireworks and opened with four hearts on the third hand.

South should have passed and would actually have set the four heart contract if he had taken two aces, but South was a duplicate player and didn't want to be shut out of his spade suit. He overcalled with four spades and Dr. Crossley doubled.

When the smoke had cleared away, South had taken three trumps and the ace of clubs and the home pair had 1,700 points on their score. Just a top-bottom situation in duplicate but enough to win the rubber bridge match rather easily at the Sands.

WELCOME WAGON

In Hollywood

By GENE HANDSAKDER
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Just as aircraft manufacturers farm out the construction of parts, television now has its subcontractors. One of the busiest is a former mess hall boss who builds bits of variety shows and will gross this year about $3 million.

John Urie photographs rock 'n' roll groups performing in unlikely settings — seashores, jungles, stairways, rooftops — and combines their gyrations with equally wild visual effects like dancing lights and floating flowers.

The results—which he calls "minifilms" or "songs to see"—are blended into the studio audience shows of the Smothers Brothers, Jonathan Winters and other stars.

The advantage, says Urie, is "getting the show off the stage and giving it space, feeling, dimension and form."

Urie, 38, operates in an old building cluttered with props, 50 employees and signs like "is there television after death?" and "Please, let's not cloud this discussion with logic."

At the rear is a sound stage where actors do scenes extolling beer, actors do scenes extolling cereal, diet drinks, cameras and many other products. Commercials are still a vital part of his business.

"The music groups came to me because they liked my commercials," Urie said. "When the Turtles fell over each other while running downhill and singing 'She's My Girl,'" Urie exclaimed: "Completely unrehearsed!"

Magnified teeth and eyes of a shaggy English group called the Hollies, drifted by in "Dear Eloise." Boyce & Hart sped through night traffic on motorcycles whose headlights refracted brilliant X's on "Out and About." Performers mouth the words to voice and instrumental tracks previously recorded.

Urie's minifilms of the Jimmy Joyce Singers can be seen Dec. 24 with the Smothers Brothers; the Strawberry Alarm Clock with Jonathan Winters Jan. 4 and the Turtles on Dick Clark's American Bandstand Jan. 6.

dren, were called harsh and repressive by many senators. They said they had assurances from Johnson, who is expected to sign the measure, that efforts will be made to change these next year.

The bill also would put limits on the rapidly growing medicare program that provides health benefits for indigent families.

The Senate actually passed the bill Thursday when Long, Louisiana Democrat and majority whip, caught opponents of the welfare provisions off guard and only about a dozen senators were on the floor.

Long's move aimed at heading off any filibuster by opponents, who include Democratic Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma and Joseph D. Tydings of Maryland.

The Senate later voted to reconsider the action and agreed to a second vote today. To that extent, Long's move worked because it committed the Senate to a specific voting deadline.

Long's action drew sharp criticism, with Kennedy and others saying they had been assured they would have a chance to speak on the bill before passage.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who was in his office on other Senate business at the time, said later: "There is such a thing as decorum and dignity in this body."

And Kennedy said bluntly: "I thought I was dealing with men."

Kennedy directed his ire at Long and Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., the No. 2 and No. 3 figures respectively in the Senate Democratic leadership.

The cash Social Security increases in the bill will total $3.6 billion a year.

They will amount to at least 15 percent for all 24 million persons now receiving benefits.

For individuals, it means a 25 percent boost, from $44 to $55 a month at the bottom of the scale and at the top, a jump from $142 to $160.50. The average monthly benefits for a man and wife will go from $145 to $165.

The payroll tax will be raised by increasing the taxable base from the present $6,600 to $7,800 starting next year.

This will mean the maximum levy for an individual and his employer, now $290.40, will be $343.20 in 1968.

The benefit increases will be first reflected in February checks to be received March 3.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If the loosening of the consumer purse strings is to take place on a large scale, as forecast and anticipated by merchants for months now, it should show up in Christmas sales.

The retailers have a lot going for them this year. Not the least, perhaps, are credit cards, which make impulse buying almost dangerously easy and which conveniently postpone payment until after Christmas.

These plastic disks have been handed out like calling cards this year, many thousands of them having been mailed without request to individuals who need only affix their signatures before using.

A factor that tends to make merchants merry is the rate of consumer savings. For more than a year Americans have been banking at a very high rate. They now have the money to spend and merchants hope to tempt them.

On the other hand, if the tight-fistedness prevails through Christmas it is going to be a lesson for everyone in just how serious is the malaise that some claim has afflicted the acquisitive American.

For reasons that sociologists and economists have been studying with growing curiosity, the carefree consumer who ran up big credit bills, who bought with abandon through the first half of the 1960s, now seems worried and perhaps a bit less secure.

This does not mean he is in the doldrums, but it does mean that he is more cautious than carefree, a bit hesitant and conservative. He has been buying but not with the vigor he is capable of showing.

His worries are many. The disturbing condition of world finances, inflation, taxes, the justified criticism of some product quality, the Vietnam war, racial problems, the coming elections are believed at the root of this mood.

Despite this, some evidence now exists that the Christmas spirit may have prodded the consumer out of his lethargy. November retail sales were distinctly higher than in October.

The November total of $26.5 billion—which includes everything from cigarettes to cars—was an increase of $400 million over October. But still it wasn't all that good, for October was a terrible sales month.

The upward trend, however, has brought much joy to the hearts of merchants, and the National Retail Merchant's Association forecasts that Christmas shoppers will spend about $1.85 billion in department stores alone.

The importance of Christmas to merchants is appreciated when it is realized that the figure projected by the NRMA is equal to about 17 percent of a full year's department store sales.

The Christmas effect is more or less pronounced in many other outlets, including liquor, variety, apparel, shoe, appliance and even food stores.

Proprietors of the nation's liquor stores have been selling their wares at a monthly rate this year of between $500 million and $600 million, but they will be disappointed if December sales don't exceed $900 million.

Variety stores, where impulse buying accounts for many sales, have had an erratic experience this year, their sales ranging between $330 million and a bit more than $500 million, very little better than the previous year.

If sales between Thanksgiving and Christmas fail to double that rate the variety store merchants will feel let down, for January sales traditionally plummet to about one-third the December total.

Because Christmas sales reflect consumer ebullience or lack of it, a lot will be learned about the mood of the nation when the sales reports come in shortly after the new year.

Greece

umbrella of the monarchy to present a better face internationally. It was noted that the regime, in creating a regency, took pains to preserve the institution of the monarchy. And Constantine presumably wants the throne.

The reports flow as the military government declared that "absolute order" prevails throughout Greece.

Brig. Stylianos Patakos, one of the junta members, said: "Let the enemies of Greece be informed, and all those who may have doubted, that the entire Greek people are supporting regenerative efforts of the national government."

Both the United States and Britain were taking new looks at their relations with the military regime. The U.S. State Department said it was withholding recognition in the wake of the young king's ouster, while Britain held that its recognition was invalidated because the chief of state to whom its ambassador was accredited—the king—had fled the country.

The junta announced it had reports from the provinces that absolute order prevailed throughout the country.

Life was back to normal in Athens. Tanks and troops that took up Wednesday in the early stages of the king's counter coup were gone from the streets.

A wet drizzle dampened Christmas shopping but banks and businesses operated normally.

The big questions on all sides were "What's the king going to do now?" and "Has he said anything so far?"

Constantine and his family stayed in seclusion in Rome and gave no public sign where or when they would go from there.

Rumors circulated in Rome that the king had been in telephone contact with the junta in Athens. There was speculation that the king and Col. George Papadopoulos, the junta strongman who made himself premier shortly before the king fled, might be discussing some way for Constantine to come back.

At noon the king and his Danish-born wife were still in the Greek Embassy where they took refuge on arriving in Rome at dawn Thursday.

Warplanes

but Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported from Hanoi that "many" U.S. planes raided the Communist capital. It gave no details.

The American command said one American and one Communist plane were downed in the raids Thursday. This brought the announced total of U.S. combat planes lost over North Vietnam to 761, and the U.S. Command in one of its period summaries of losses said that more than 3,000 U.S. aircraft have been lost in the war.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese government announced a 24-hour Christmas truce beginning at 6 p.m. (5 a.m. EST) Christmas Eve and said it had decided "in principle" to observe a 24-hour truce for New Year's and a 48-hour cease-fire for Tet, the Vietnamese lunar new year at the end of January.

The Viet Cong got a propaganda jump nearly a month ago by announcing it would observe three-day cease-fires at Christmas and New Year's and a seven-day truce at Tet.

It was assumed the U.S. Command would suspend the bombing of North Vietnam for the truce periods ordered by the South Vietnamese, but there was no immediate announcement of this.

The Communist defenders of Hanoi and Haiphong filled the skies Thursday with SAM missiles, blistering antiaircraft fire and MIG fighters. One American F105 Thunderchief was lost to "unknown causes," the U.S. Command said, and a Navy Crusader jet blasted a MIG17 from the sky with an air-to-air missile.

North Vietnam said four American planes were shot down.

The U.S. Command said 95 missions were flown against the North Thursday. The major effort was a big Air Force strike on the most vital bridge in Hanoi, coordinated with Air Force and Navy raids on Communist missile sites.

In the heavily defended belt just below Hanoi and its port of Haiphong, American jets blasted 14 installations housing Soviet-built SAM missiles. The missiles criss-crossed the sky, but returning pilots said they saw none of them hitting American planes.

The break in the weather became evident about noon Thursday, and eager operations officers hastily remade flight schedules to pour in planes from Thailand, South Vietnam and two carriers in the Tonkin Gulf.

Knowing that Red defenses would be built up after the long period of weather protection, extra jets were sent along to attack the antiaircraft installations and as high altitude cover against the MIG17s and MIG21s of the small North Vietnamese air force.

Ground action flared in three sensitive battle areas of South Vietnam—along the Cambodian border, at the demilitarized zone and along the central coastal plains, where the pitched battles of the past few weeks show no sign of abating.

On the coastal plains, U.S. headquarters reported at least 111 Communists killed in two sharp battles.

— Hand grips must be provided for the passenger. Permanent seat straps are acceptable if they are manufacturer's original or replacement equipment.

— Passengers must be provided with firmly mounted adjustable footrest.

— The passenger must keep his feet on the footrest while the motorcycle is moving.

— Each motorcycle must have a rearview mirror to provide a view 200 feet.

Aid

which adjournment was pinned—a major expansion of Social Security benefits—is expected to start the surge for adjournment when the Senate votes on it before noon.

The House flagged down the rush at least temporarily Thursday when it rejected 196 to 185 a compromise $2.3 billion foreign aid appropriation bill. It sent the measure, which would appropriate the lowest foreign aid total in the program's 20-year history, back to the conferees.

They quickly agreed to a figure $20 million lower, setting the stage for another House confrontation on which early adjournment hopes appear to ride.

Another big obstacle to adjournment on schedule was removed Thursday night when conferees agreed to the school aid bill that would authorize funding for the program through fiscal 1970.

A compromise allocation formula that would guarantee that no state would get less money than it received in the last fiscal year cleared the way for acceptance by the conferees.

The agreement also eliminated from the bill a provision passed 71 to 0 by the Senate that would have permitted the federal courts to hear challenges by taxpayers to the granting of federal funds to church-related institutions.

Retained in the bill was the principle of state control of funds for local school districts to help them establish supplemental programs designed to improve the quality of education.

"apocalyptic awfulness" of modern war.

He advised political leaders, against believing that only force and policies of deterrence can resolve international controversies.

He also deplored nationalism, arms buildups, racism and revenge.

The Pope spoke in an unusual papal document addressed to the world's half billion Roman Catholics and to "all men of good will."

He reaffirmed his fears of nuclear war, saying: "We see peace to be threatened so seriously and with intimations of terrible events, which may prove catastrophic for entire nations and perhaps even for a great part of mankind."

The document was dated Dec. 8 but was made public by the Vatican today. It contained two parts—one addressed to men of good will throughout the world, and the other to the bishops and laymen of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Pope did not refer specifically to the Vietnam war although at past Christmas seasons he has issued appeals for peace there.

It seemed clear, however, that the war was still uppermost in his thoughts.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market headed irregularly lower early this afternoon after wiping out an early rise. Trading was fairly active.

Volume for the first four hours was 8.08 million shares compared with 9.07 million Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off slightly. Gains on the New York Stock Exchange were outnumbered narrowly by losses, having backed away from an early advantage of 3-to-2 on the upside.

Reports on the gold situation again caused hesitation and led to caution by traders. Gold-mining stocks advanced while the trend softened in the over-all list.

Homestake, the nation's largest gold producer advanced a couple of points. American South African Investment ran up more than 3 points.

IBM sank about 9 points, Polaroid 4 and Xerox about 3.

Du Pont held a 2-point gain. U.S. Gypsum rose a couple of points and Pan American Sulphur advanced more than 3 in active trading.

Brunswick and American Motors were fractional losers in heavy trading as profits were taken on recent strength. Also active, Twentieth Century Fox, McDonnell Douglas and Hazeltine fell more than a point each.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange remained generally higher.

BEANS ADVANCE

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans futures advanced one cent a bushel today on the Chicago Board of Trade, but most grain prices were lower.

The advance in soybeans was based mainly on a report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture that farmers had placed some 191 million bushels under government loan from the new crop. A month earlier there were 174 million bushels under loan. The trade theorized that, with an increase in soybeans under government loan, fewer would be

Little Sister's Purse Becomes Big Sister's

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY—I, like most teen-agers, want to be in style so I shopped for one of the new small purses with a long strap. They cost so much more than I can afford but, as I looked through the stores, I thought of a great idea. My little sister had a purse she never used so I took off the small strap, bought a black patent leather belt that matched the purse and put this through the metal loops on the ends of the purse. I can adjust the strap to any desired size and I saved a lot of money.—SANDRA

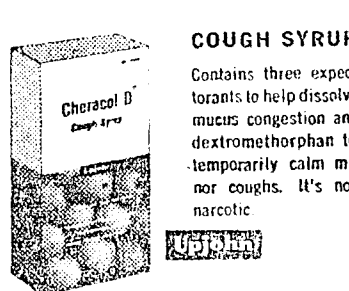

Good for you, Sandra. Too often we give up in despair and never use any ingenuity to get what we want when it might be at our fingertips.—POLLY
Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—I hope someone can tell me how to launder polished cotton so it retains its shine or is there a way to restore it after washing? Also, is it possible to mend a small hole in a plastic pan so that it will hold water again?—LILLIAN who pay respects to our departed ones by taking flowers to the cemetery always find the containers buried in front of the plot and impossible to remove due to hard earth, crab grass and so on. I have been using empty four-ounce soft drink cans as flower holders. I paint several of them green at one time, then the caretaker can throw them away with the wilted flowers. Pebbles or rocks put in the bottom before filling with water prevent a tip over.—W.J.S.
DEAR POLLY—Those of us

DEAR W. J.—We always like to hear from our gentlemen readers. Keep up the good work.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—My family thinks I rate a Polly Dollar (Polly thinks so, too) for stretching a dollar. I used an old acetate jersey dress to make pretty panties. I used an old pair for a pattern, cutting these a bit larger for comfort and to allow for seams. The top was hemmed and elastic run through and the legs did not have to be hemmed. These panties are more comfortable, dry faster and have worn longer than my others. I am now making a half-slip out of the skirt of another such dress.—MRS. G.
DEAR POLLY—My 90-year-old father still raises a small garden. To push the leaves aside when he looks for cucumbers, tomatoes, bugs and worms he uses a T which he made with two thin boards. This saves him from having to stoop over. When he picks cherries, he runs a heavy cord through the wire handle of a bucket, puts this around his neck and shoulders leaving both hands free to pick the fruit and hold onto a branch of the tree.—MRS. Spirits Baked Into Kentucky Theme Fruitcake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

In Grandma's time fruitcakes were doused with liquor after they were baked. But nowadays cooks want to bake spirits right into the cake. We suspect this is the case because the famous fruitcake from Kentucky—made with bourbon, golden raisins and pecans—has been getting around, making friends and influencing people.

So to please this generation of cooks, here's a variation on the Kentucky theme—a cake that's made with brandy, golden raisins and pecans plus candied fruits. Have fun!

BRANDY FRUITCAKE
1 package (15 ounces) golden seedless raisins
1 cup candied cherries, halved
1 cup large chunks golden candied pineapple
1 cup large chunks green candied pineapple
1 cup large chunks citron
1 cup packaged mixed diced candied fruits and peels
1 cup domestic brandy
3 cups sifted regular flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
5 large eggs
1 cup (½ pound) butter (2 sticks)
2 cups sugar
2 cups pecan halves

Into a casserole (about 2½ quarts) turn the raisins, candied fruits and peels and brandy; mix well. Cover and leave at room temperature overnight.

On wax paper sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. In a medium bowl beat the eggs until thickened—they should be a pale yellow color.

Without washing beater, in a large bowl cream the butter and sugar; add beaten eggs and beat to combine. Stir in brandy-fruit mixture and the pecans. Add sifted flour mixture; with a spoon mix until blended.

Turn batter into two greased and floured 7½-inch tube pans (4 inches deep). Bake at 300 degrees until cake tester inserted in center comes out free of batter—2½ to 3 hours.

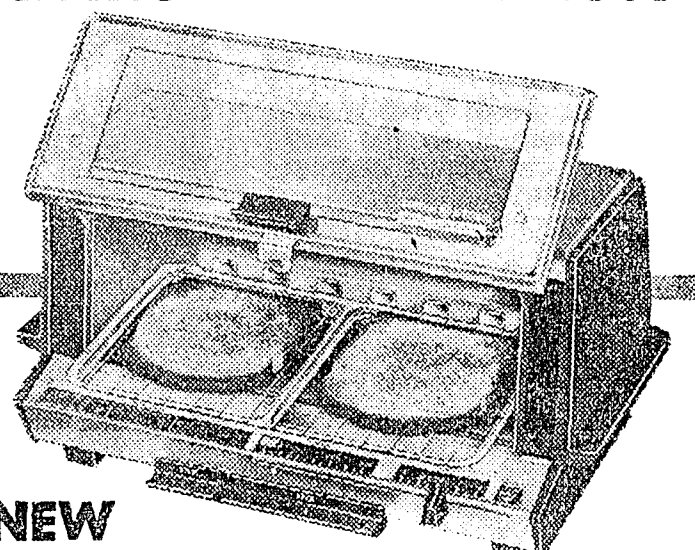

Note: This fruitcake batter makes 12 cups and may be baked in two greased and floured 9 by 5 by 3 inch loaf pans at 300 degrees for 2 hours.

Betty Canary Admen, Don't Mess Around

By BETTY CANARY

When a neighbor's child opened his mouth and displayed a sticky, half-chewed jellybean for my inspection, after informing me, "Once you lick the color off, they're clear," I found it just as nauseating as the commercial children on television trying to convince me to buy cereal by showing me how it runs down their arms.

I think part of the message here is, "Children are charming." So, I'll agree. Children are charming. Not, however, when crushing potato chips into their mouths, or when shoving their noses into ice cream cones, and never, never when cramming part of a spoonful of cereal into their faces while most of it drops onto the table. I also think some sponsors are trying a wee bit of psychology. They are telling us that even when the entire family is sloppy, mother can whip into the room and clean up with a squirt of wax and a chuckle.

This approach rather cancels out another thing they are doing for us—getting realism into advertising.

I'm really not a babe in the woods when it comes to realism. I can recognize it, just as I recognize that little girl messing cereal around her neck. And, really, in most mothers' kitchens, the little girl is going to get her bowl taken away from her. And, during the next trip to the supermarket, mother is going to buy something the child will eat instead of spending money on something to pour down her neck.

Then there is the supposed realism of the father and two sons watching the game on television while spattering food all over the floor and furniture. In real life mother might dash into the room and shout, "Game's over," all right—but she won't be humming when she shovels up after them.

I find it difficult to understand why sponsors choose such messy people to use their products in front of me. Surely it's not to persuade me to run out and buy. I do very little shopping when my stomach is upset.

English Scholar Agrees With The Warren Report

LONDON (AP) — A leading English intellectual and pundit attempted Thursday to debunk the debunkers with a lengthy, closely argued assertion that the Warren Commission was basically correct in its findings on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

John Sparrow, warden of All Souls College, Oxford, wrote in the literary supplement of the London Times: "Critics of the report are of two kinds: 'demonologists,' who are ready to sling at authorities any stone and any mud that presents itself, and serious inquirers, who concentrate on a hard core of relevant evidence."

But none, he suggested in the 19,000-word article, has a case to answer.

"They put forward good points and bad alike," he says, "mingle discredited assertions with valid evidence, and make up for weak links in their hypotheses by loud assertion and virulent abuse of the Dallas police, the FBI and the commission."

"The near future will show how much of the Joesten-Garrison conspiracy theory can survive examination in court; at the moment (Clay) Shaw's trial is pending and it is perhaps significant that no conspiracy changes have yet been added to the indictment."

Sparrow declared: "Throughout all attacks on the commission's report there run two fatal weaknesses. The first (is) an inability to see the wood through obsession with a single tree."

"The other . . . is that the authors have never thought themselves back into the circumstances at the relevant time, and asked whether it is possible to believe that the persons concerned, with the knowledge then available to them, could have decided to do the things they are supposed to have done."

THE DOCTOR SAYS Community Sanitation Best Preventive Measure

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
(Last of Two Related Articles.)

The only thing that is better than a prompt recovery from an attack of viral hepatitis is not to get it in the first place. Since there is no vaccine against this disease, prevention is largely a matter of community sanitation. There are, however, a few preventive measures that can be applied within your home. To prevent the spread of hepatitis by contaminated hands, every member of the family should make it a habit to wash hands thoroughly before meals and after each trip to the toilet. For this purpose, the use of a soap that contains hexachlorophene gives the best protection.

Children should be taught to keep dirty objects out of their mouths. When any circumstance, such as a flood, endangers the local water supply you should boil all drinking water for at least 12 minutes. Giving gamma globulin to persons believed to have been exposed to this disease was formerly advocated, but recent studies suggest that it is not very effective for this purpose.

Q—Is a cold passed from one person to another or are the germs picked up through the air?

A—The common cold virus is present in the secretions of the nose and throat of persons in the early stages of the disease. It is borne through the air in tiny droplets when such a person sneezes, coughs, laughs or talks. It may also be transmitted by contaminated articles, such as eating utensils. In dealing with anything so tiny as a virus, the relative importance of one means of transmission over another is hard to determine.

Q—I am 70 years old. I get cramps in my feet and legs every night. What can I do for them? Would brewer's yeast help?

A—Small doses of quinine sulfate, with or without aminophylline or other drugs, are often prescribed for muscular cramps. This treatment has helped some persons. It should not be used during pregnancy. Chloroquine phosphate is also helpful. These drugs should be taken only under medical supervision. For immediate temporary relief, nothing beats getting up and walking or massaging the cramped muscles.

Brewer's yeast is a rich source of vitamin B and is not harmful, but I know of no evidence that it will help your cramps.

King, McKissick Support Negro Olympic Boycott

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King and Floyd McKissick said Thursday they support a boycott of the Olympic games by Negro athletes.

They also called for the removal of Avery Brundage as head of the International Olympic Committee.

An organizer of the boycott said Brundage has shown himself to be anti-Semitic and anti-Negro.

Dr. King, Nobel Peace Prize winner and head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said he and the conference view a boycott as "a protest and a struggle against racism and injustice which is what we're working to eliminate."

McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said he hoped a boycott would remind people that "an athlete is only on the field two or more hours, after which he becomes a black man again subject to the same discrimination other black men must live in."

Dr. Harry Edwards, associate professor of sociology at San Jose State College and head of a boycott committee, said Brundage is "totally unacceptable as head of the Olympic commission."

Edwards said his group's research had disclosed what he called "demonstrable and provable anti-Semitic and anti-Negro" statements and actions by Brundage.

Edwards said Brundage owns and operates a country club in Santa Barbara, Calif., where no Negroes or Jews are allowed to use the facilities.

Brundage could not be reached immediately for comment.

Dr. King said five other demands also must be met before Negro athletes would compete in the competitions to be held in Mexico City next October. They involve alleged discrimination against Negro and Jewish athletes by the U.S. Olympic Committee.

A group of Negro athletes voted Nov. 23 in Los Angeles to boycott the games at a Black Youth Conference.

Romney Talks With German Political Leaders

BONN, Germany (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said Thursday: "There will be no pullout from Vietnam as result of the 1968 election."

"Regardless of how the election comes out, I want to stress that I think there will be no lessening of our determined efforts to find a satisfactory solution" in Vietnam, he told newsmen.

Romney, who has advocated neutralizing Vietnam as a possible alternative to present U.S. policy there, said it should be clearly understood that this would not mean abandoning Vietnam.

Whatever America does in Vietnam, Romney said, must be carried out in such a way so as to "avoid weakening the confidence of the nations of Europe."

He added that during his present tour he has found Britain and West Germany disturbed by what they regard as "lack of leadership" in Washington and preoccupation with Asian problems ahead of Europe.

What's so special about watches, anyway? They're made up of mainsprings and hairsprings. Balance wheels. And a lot of other delicate mechanisms.

It's those things that make a watch run. Be it fast or slow. Or maybe not at all.

So why give someone an ordinary watch? You could give an Accutron® timepiece instead.

Accutron has no hairspring. No mainspring. No balance wheel. They've been replaced by a tuning fork.

The tuning fork does everything ordinary watchworks are supposed to do. Measure time. Only it does it more accurately.

Sylvania made their TV set smaller and came up with a bigger picture.

It wasn't easy. Sylvania started chipping away at their old black and white cabinet. Cutting corners here and there.

And came up with a trim set that has a big 19" diagonal measure rectangular screen with squared out corners. (Fact is, the new bright screen is 12 sq. in. bigger than the old one.)

But while Sylvania was busy cutting corners outside, they didn't cut a thing inside. Where there's the top-rated "Power Master" chassis, transistorized noise suppression circuit. And many other goodies, too complicated to mention here.

Back on the outside, they finished some sets beige and some ebony. And topped the whole thing off with a wear-proof handle.

Now you're probably wondering how many corners you'll have to cut to buy this nifty portable.

None. We've cut them for you.

But It's Not Smog

Lung Cancer More Common In Cities

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Something about urban life makes death from lung cancer more common in the city than the country, but it's not smog, a team of state health scientists reports.

The conclusion was based on results of a nine-year study of almost 70,000 Californians.

"Although smog is known to have serious adverse health effects, it is not a causative factor in lung cancer," state Health Director Leslie Breslow told a news conference Wednesday.

Breslow reported the results of a study launched in 1958 to find out if California's smog may be a factor in the higher rate of lung cancer deaths in cities than in rural regions.

Although Los Angeles has the state's worst smog, the lung cancer death rate reported in the study was lower there than in either San Diego or San Francisco.

Breslow teamed with Dr. John E. Dunn and Philip Buell to analyze the cases of 69,868 men. The researchers concentrated on those who had lived in the state for 15 to 20 years—the period in which smog became a major problem in Los Angeles and then in other metropolitan areas.

"We would expect an influence on lung cancer to show up about this time," Breslow said. But there was none, he reported.

Studies are continuing to find out why city residents are more likely to get lung cancer than their rural counterparts.

"That problem remains unsolved," Breslow said.

Lung cancer may be a hazard of some occupations associated with urban life, but there is no substantial evidence of it yet, Breslow said.

ASKS $3 MILLION FOR BLINDING OF SON IN POLICE CAR

SALEM, Ill. (AP) — The father of a youth who was permanently blinded in a Salem police car accident Dec. 23, 1966, filed a $3 million suit Thursday against the policeman.

Francis Meador, whose 19-year old son David was seriously injured when the squad car ran off the road while chasing a speeder, named Salem city policeman Robert Robertson in the four-count suit filed in Circuit Court.

The suit claims Robertson told young Meador — at the time an off-duty Salem police radio operator — to get in the squad and operate the radio in seeking assistance to capture the speeder. In October Meador's father live for a century and a half, filed a three-count $2.25 million according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

In five months, a tobacco seed can produce a plant 20 miles long. The accident occurred when the squad car hit an embankment.

MacMurray Rips IC 102-84

Quick Mac Defense Forces 42 Mistakes

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

MacMurray's lightning-quick defense set up a 12-2 scoring spurt in the last minute and a half of the first half and the Highlanders continued their domination over cross-town rival Illinois College with a 102-84 victory, in an extra ragged contest before the usual packed house at Mac Thursday evening.

The quicker Highlanders squad rattled the weak ball handling IC squad into an unbelievable 42 ball turnovers, 16 of those floor mistakes coming before the losers got the ball to mid-court.

Added to the Mac plus column was an even 50% shooting rate while IC managed only 26% for the first half and 35% for the game. The only Mac deficit was IC's 47-34 rebounding edge and a hot night from the three throw line. 20 of 25. The winners were guilty of 23 turnovers.

Jumping jack sophomore Mark Kolb was the chief Mac offensive weapon, as the Rock Falls high graduate threw in 27 points, 15 in the first half, and hauled down 11 rebounds. Kolb hit 11 of 20 shots from the outside.

The Highlanders hit the century mark when 6-6 freshman Mike Haliburton pilfered the ball for a layup with 20 seconds left in the game.

Martin Tops Again
Martin again proved to be the Blueboys' big scorer. Martin tossed in 25 points, including 11 of 15 free tosses, and hauled down 18 rebounds. Center Paul Runkle backed Martin in the board department with 12 retrievers and also added 13 points.

Guard Kevin Lawrence pushed in 20 points, 18 in the final half. Forward Dan Runkle made double figures with 13 and Mayer with 11.

Desmond supported Kolb's 27 with a 17-point evening, while Runkle made double figures with 14. Al Killoran hit nine before fouling out early in the second half and Chuck Alexander tossed in ten in five of six hits from the field in limited playing time.

The victory moves MacMurray to 3-3 on the year and drops IC to 4-5. The two clubs will meet again Feb. 27 on the IC floor in the 14th meeting between the two clubs since 1960.

Fabulous Sophs Already Making Scoring Marks

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Maravich of Louisiana State and Calvin Murphy of Niagara have played only three games each in their college varsity careers, but already they've gained a distinction no one ever has had.

According to major college basketball statistics released Thursday, sophomore Maravich and Murphy have higher scoring averages than any previous major collegian ever had at any ranking time in any season.

Maravich, son of the LSU coach, is averaging 47 points a game while Murphy, an oddity at 5-foot-10, has scored at a 45 clip.

There's a long way to go, of course, but just for the record, the only sophomore ever to win the scoring title was Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati in 1958. That was the first of three titles for him.

Lew Alcindor, UCLA's 7-foot All-American, is ninth among the leaders with a 30-point average.

Florida's Neal Walk, who is eighth in scoring, is first in rebounding, averaging 24.8 a game, and Joe Allen of Bradley has the best field goal percentage, 80.4.

Terry Gamber of Northwestern is tops in free throw accuracy with a perfect mark of 15 for 15. Glen Combs of Virginia Tech has missed one free throw in 23 tries for second place. Seven other players have missed only one foul toss with their attempts ranging from 16 through 21.

Big Ten Puts Cold Shoulder To Playoff Idea

CHICAGO (AP) — A national collegiate post-season football playoff got a cold shoulder Thursday by the Big Ten.

The feasibility of such a plan, pitting regional champions for the mythical national title, is being studied by the NCAA. But the consensus of the Big Ten at its annual winter meeting was against it.

Foremost backer of the program is Coach Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State.

"There was faculty reaction against it because it prolonged the regular season," said Commissioner Bill Reed. "It also infringed on the conduct of the bowl games."

The conference voted to increase the traveling squad of the Rose Bowl representative from 44 to 50 players. This should benefit Indiana which plays Southern California in the New Year's Day classic. The increase is the first since the 1947 Rose Bowl game.

In other action, baseball coaches approved a championship season requiring nine decisions for the pennant and approval was given for adding the triple jump, an Olympic event, to the 1969 conference outdoor track meet.

The conference also endorsed a recruiting regulation permitting a coach two visitations to one prospective athlete instead of one. Also, after the prospect has submitted a tender of acceptance, visitations will be unlimited.

An extra year's eligibility — due to injury or other hardship cases — was granted to these football players:

The 1968 outdoor track meet was shifted from Michigan to Minnesota.

Jacks Open Loop Play This Weekend

Rountt, ISD Entertain Tonight

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Jacksonville's entry into Capitol Conference activity highlights the local basketball picture this weekend. While the Crimson are involved in home-and-away weekend, Rountt and ISD each entertain a non-conference foe Friday in their only weekend encounter.

The Crimson, who found their first taste of victory in an offensively impressive 67-49 victory over Jerseyville last weekend, visit undefeated Decatur MacArthur tonight, and entertain winless Champaign Centennial, a new conference entry, Saturday.

JHS coach Frank Long is hopeful last week's win and a good week of practice will put the Crimson off and running. "I think the kids have grown up now, and we're hoping the experience we have gained in the first three games will show up this weekend."

"We worked the ball much better against Jerseyville in the second half, and we were working better against their press. I felt like Rick Hatcher improved a lot last week. He did not make a bad pass and looked much better. Ed Wingler had a fine second half, and of course I was pleased with our big boys. Duane Mounts pulled down 24 rebounds. Bob Esslinger had 15 and Gerry McKean 11." Mounts tossed in 30 points and Esslinger 25 for 55 of the 67 points.

Long calls MacArthur a quick team, but deliberate on offense. "They have good jumping ability. I feel that if we can rebound and play defense we will be all right."

MacArthur, which split with JHS last year, has beaten Shelbyville.

Lomborg Signs New Contract With Big Boost

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Lomborg, the Boston Red Sox pitching ace who posted 22 regular season victories and added another two in the World Series, signed his 1968 contract Thursday in a brief meeting with General Manager Dick O'Connell.

"I only took about a minute," the 24-year-old Lomborg said after moving into the $50,000-a-year category.

The salary is believed to be at least double what he earned this past season.

"I hope others are just as easy," he said in referring to the usual trouble in signing members of a pennant winning team.

byville, Clinton, Griffin and Mt. Pulaski, in their four outings. Starters are 6-1 junior Mike Reed and 6-9 senior Gary Hunter at the forwards; 6-5 senior Ralph Rosser at center; 5-11 senior Bob Fox and 5-10 junior Bill Sutton at the guards. Top reserve is 5-11 junior forward Gerald Waters. To date Rosser has been the Generals' top offensive weapon, averaging a little over 20 per game, including 35 against Griffin.

Long will start Hatcher and Wingler at the guards, Mounts and McKean at forwards and Esslinger at center, with Hatcher replacing top reserve Rod Simonds in the only change from the last game. These six have been the only players to see varsity action to date.

The game will be held at the MacArthur gymnasium on North Fairview in Decatur, and is scheduled to start about 8:15. Saturday's opponent is in its first year of varsity athletics, and has lost to Paxton, Thornridge of Dalton and University Heights of Normal in its three games. Starters are 6-0 senior and 5-10 Ed Jenkins forwards; 6-5 senior Randy Moncrief at center; and 5-9 junior Herb LeShoure and 5-11 junior Tom Langlois at the guards. To date LeShoure has been the top scorer, with 18 per game.

Assisting head coach Bob Avery will be Bob Winstead, former Rountt and Rushville head coach.

Rountt, which has had its trouble with a decent shooting percentage in a 1-3 record, will host Kincaid this evening. The Rockets, with a win over St. Mary's of Mt. Sterling to go with losses to Winchester, Carrollton and Bluffs, have yet to shoot a mediocre 30%. A lack of rebounding has been another problem.

ISD will bring a 2-3 mark against Greenfield, 0-3, Friday at the Tigers' gymnasium. ISD has been in each game to date, while Greenfield has been shaded by Northwestern and Winchester and was blitzed by Chandlerville. Charles Gaige has 43 points to date, followed by Roger Lansaw with 39.

Randy Crews added 13 points and Jodie Harrison 11 in the Illinois attack. BYU was topped by Parsons with 15 while Eakins added 14 and Marty Lythgoe 11.

It was BYU's first loss in four games. Illinois forced the visitors into 24 turnovers.

Chicago's Farr Voted Offensive Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — When Mel Farr, the All-American halfback from UCLA, reported to the Detroit Lions training camp this summer he had four goals.

"I wanted to make the Lions as a starter," said Farr. "I wanted to make Rookie of the Year. I wanted to gain 1,000 yards and I wanted to make all-pro."

Farr now has hit two goals. He has been voted Offensive Rookie of the Year in the National Football League by the overwhelming vote of an Associated Press panel of sportswriters and sportscasters, three from each league city. He has been a starter since the beginning of the season.

Farr isn't far short of his 1,000-yard rushing goal. With Sunday's game against Minnesota to go, he has gained 791 yards. That leaves him 209 yards short of his ambition. He didn't make the all-league team which had Leroy Kelly of Cleveland and Gale Sayers of Chicago running backs.

The panel cast 34 votes for Farr. His closest challenger was Louie Williams of the St. Louis Cardinals, who received five votes. Dan Abramowicz, the New Orleans Saints' fine receiver, was named on three ballots.

THE SQUEEZE: IC's Paul Runkle (1) and Charley Martin put the squeeze on an unidentified MacMurray player for a rebound. Martin and Runkle combined for 38 rebounds but MacMurray's quick-er Highlanders ran up a 102-84 victory.

Unitas Is NFL's Most Valuable

BALTIMORE (AP) — A year doing my job to the best of my ability, Unitas said. "That's all I can expect. If I do personal records, I can't expect that I'm supposed to do, the named the Most Valuable Player job gets done. If not, I'll be in the National Football League for 1967."

John Unitas, of the Baltimore Colts, was named the Most Valuable Player of the year in the National Football League for 1967.

Unitas rebounded from a disappointing year to capture the Baltimore Colts' MVP award. The Colts won two of five games, and fell out of the playoffs in the 1966 after Unitas suffered a shoulder injury in the ninth game. He finished the campaign in pain and with 14 interceptions.

This season, protected by an almost rebuilt Baltimore line which has allowed him to be trapped snapping back remarkably. He has tossed for 19 touchdowns and yielded 14 interceptions while connecting on 58 per cent of his attempts.

Although recovered from the shoulder injury, Unitas is bothered with a chronic tennis elbow because of his peculiar delivery of a pass. As a result, Coach Don Shula recommended John cut down on his throwing in training camp and at the daily practice sessions.

Dodge To Make Run At Title

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Unless there is a change of plans, Dodge will make a run for NASCAR's Grand National driving and manufacturers titles next season, using big, strong Buddy Baker as the driver.

Details haven't been worked out, but Ray Fox, the 52-year-old Daytona Beach veteran, may be the key man in the car-building effort.

One source says Fox will build Baker's superspeedway cars, and direct the strategy in the big money, big point events, while Cotton Owens of Spartanburg, S.C., will build the short track machinery.

Owens insists he hasn't come to an agreement with Dodge for the next season. But Fox admits the team will be in a stronger role with the company. Fox has Baker's this season for the first time in 12 years, and has placed in nine pro bowl games. He was named the MVP in three pro bowl games and in the 1963 and 1965 NFL championship games.

The honors mean as much to Unitas as his NFL records of 3,511 touchdowns, 3,075 passes, 1,212 completions and 32,815 yards of passing. In 1967, he was named MVP for the first time in 12 years, and has placed in nine pro bowl games. He was named the MVP in three pro bowl games and in the 1963 and 1965 NFL championship games.

British Tennis Fathers Vote For Open Meets

LONDON (AP) — Britain's tennis fathers voted Thursday for open tournaments despite threatened suspension by the international organization that controls the sport in all parts of the world.

In open tournaments amateurs and professionals would compete in the same event with the amateurs getting trophies and the pros receiving cash prizes, the same as in golf.

The change was made by substituting the word "professional" for "amateur" in the British rules. Thus all competitors now carry the same designation. It will become effective April 22, two days before the start of the British hard court tournament.

The International Federation had threatened to suspend the British association if it had gone through with its original plan to have the new rule become effective on Jan. 1.

By the action, the British have opened Wimbledon to the professionals. It has been the major shrine of amateur tennis since 1877.

LBJ Mild Mannered After Recent Criticism Of GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — A milder-mannered President Johnson followed up Thursday on his recent blast at congressional Republicans by tossing them a few bouquets.

Obviously aware of the large-party partisan backfire that followed his anti-GOP remarks Tuesday at the AFL-CIO convention in Miami, Johnson told a bipartisan White House audience:

"I say good things about the members of the other party—when there are good things to say. We frequently have that opportunity."

Johnson's audience had gathered in the East Room to watch him sign into law new consumer protection bills this year, adding:

"This is a good service. This helps to make this a good Congress. This shows, I think, that there are good men in both good parties."

With many Congress members in his audience, Johnson voiced a strong appeal for Capitol Hill action on consumer legislation. He said:

"I am telling you, you had better get with it because the women in this country are going to insist on it."

He said women "are tired of eating diseased meat and seeing their babies burned up in blouses and having pipelines break under their houses."

The bill Johnson signed Thursday extends the scope of the 1953 Flammable Fabrics Act to include all items of wearing apparel and interior furnishings.

The measure also authorizes the secretary of commerce to promulgate flammability standards or other regulations whenever he finds this is necessary to protect the public.

The bill not only covers all wearing apparel and interior furnishings but also permits new standards to be set administratively to keep pace with the introduction of new fabrics and other changes.

Johnson told the bill-signing witnesses he hopes to get six into name-calling contests. I don't want to say any ugly things about individuals. But I do about programs and about bills."

In his nationally televised AFL-CIO speech, the chief executive called congressional Republicans "nay-sayers" and recited the party's voting record on a list of administration-sponsored legislation.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan hit back Wednesday by asserting that "the Great Society of Lynsay" Johnson has become a runaway locomotive with a wild-eyed engineer at the throttle.

Even the Senate Democratic leader, Mike Mansfield of Montana, got into the act by saying there are nay-sayers in both parties and that any praise or blame for Congress could be spread impartially.

Step Toward Creation Of Life

Scientists Create Active DNA Virus

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Biochemists said Thursday they had synthesized an active virus—in a major step that could lead to creation of life itself.

Dr. Arthur Kornberg, head of Stanford University's department of biochemistry, and Dr. Mehlan Goulian, former Stanford postdoctoral fellow now at the University of Chicago, said they had produced in a test tube for the first time a fully active DNA virus.

Dr. Kornberg called the man-made virus biologically active—meaning that it can produce certain specific reactions—but he would not say that it is living matter.

In Washington, Dr. James A. Shannon, director of the National Institutes of Health, which has been the key financial supporter of Kornberg's work, said the achievement "unquestionably will stand as one of the great landmarks of research in the life sciences."

He said the new development has great potential to help solve a number of difficult and pressing national health problems, particularly certain forms of cancer that may be caused by viruses, and possibly diseases of genetic origin.

A virus is a protein bag containing a coiled thread or threads of nucleic acids, the essence of life. Viruses cause numerous diseases in men, plants and animals, but many others do not.

DNA — deoxyribonucleic acid — is the basic hereditary material found in every living cell. When, in feeding, a cell absorbs a virus containing DNA, the viral nucleic acids can take control of the cell's own DNA, which then starts producing more viruses instead of taking care of it cell functions. Sometimes it makes so many viruses that it bursts.

The Stanford team used as a template or pattern the single-thread DNA of a dwarf virus, PHI X 174, that infects and destroys a type of bacteria called E. coli in the human intestinal tract. Neither the virus nor the microbe is known to cause disease.

Dr. Robert L. Sinsheimer of Cal Tech discovered PHI X in 1959, the same year Dr. Kornberg won a Nobel Prize for making DNA in a test tube out of a mixture of inert chemicals.

Drs. Goulian and Kornberg, reporting in the December issue of "Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences," explain that they prepared a test-tube copy of PHI X DNA from a fully active virus.

They used sophisticated laboratory techniques to separate the synthetic material from the original DNA. Then they used the synthetic DNA for further rounds of replication, or continuing cycles of independent existence.

The scientists froze samples of each succeeding version of synthetic DNA and shipped them to Dr. Sinsheimer at Pasadena. Dr. Sinsheimer tested the samples' ability to replicate the complete viruses. And they did replicate, producing fully active synthetic DNA viruses exactly like the original, which were capable of invading other bacteria, Sinsheimer said.

Dr. Sinsheimer said, "First, the research determined that there are two enzymes, DNA polymerase and DNA ligase, that carry out what we know to be the first step in the infective process in nature."

"Second, considering that there are 5,500 nucleotides—genetic compounds—in the viral DNA, the work also demonstrated that the copying of the DNA blueprint in the test tube must have been very good. There could not have been many mistakes."

The synthetic virus contains at least five genes—molecular configurations of the nucleic acids—with 5,000 to 6,000 "letters" of the genetic alphabet, the building blocks of DNA whose sequence governs hereditary traits.

Other researchers have tried to synthesize an active form of DNA, many working with tobacco mosaic virus, and have claimed success. But Dr. Kornberg says the reported results were negative or inconclusive.

Dr. Kornberg said the Stanford research, culminating almost 11 years of studying DNA synthesis in the test tube, represents an important step forward in understanding how viruses are replicated when they enter cells and how DNA polymerase or similar enzymes make new DNA.

Pilot Suspects Viet Migs Based In Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnamese MIGs appear to be flying out of Red China to oppose U.S. pilots bombing near the North Vietnamese-Chinese border. Air Force Col. Daniel James Jr. said Thursday.

James, just returned to the United States after flying 78 combat missions over the north, avoided a flat statement that the Communists were in fact operating out of China. But he came close.

"I've never watched aircraft come out of Red China as such," he told a Pentagon news conference. But lately, he said, especially in the past two months, U.S. pilots have had a number of indications the Chinese bases were being used — "especially recently when we chased some of them up that direction and they couldn't have gone anywhere else."

James, a 47-year-old Negro pilot, added: "I'm convinced they're making use of Red Chinese bases when they need them at a particular time."

Cass Supervisor Assures Efforts For Equal Taxes

BEARDSTOWN — Beardstown township supervisor and former county treasurer A. C. (Todd) Schuettler told members of the board of supervisors at Virginia that the Cass county board of review, of which he is a member, is doing all it can to equalize taxation in the county.

He indicated that thus far it has not been possible to extend the tax program to all persons, but that the board hopes to "catch-up" with all the people very soon.

Schuettler did not say how many people have not been taxed, but he emphasized that it is the hope to make all pay their fair share of the tax burden.

The board of supervisors met at the courthouse in Virginia, and heard that the county multiplier for tax purposes will be 1.3889 this year, an increase of .0375 on each $100 of assessed valuation.

The board has approved a resolution to authorize funds for a new building to house county highway equipment, and to be used as well by the rabies control Department.

Highway Superintendent Bob Phelps said the cost of the new building will be $1.39 per square foot. Phelps, in his remarks to the board, made an appeal for fringe benefits for department workers, a matter which will be considered by the board.

The supervisors granted a request for improvement of radio equipment in the sheriff's car and discussed expenses for tele-

Gold Speculation Continues Despite Recent Curbs

LONDON (AP) — Gold buying in London was reported to have broken all records Thursday amid confusion and uncertainty about new international moves to curb speculation in the metal.

One dealer said 120 tons of gold changed hands on the London bullion market. There was no confirmation of this, but if correct it would surpass the turnover records set last month after Britain devalued the pound and the American dollar came under pressure through demand on gold.

There was no evidence of direct pressure on the dollar Thursday from sellers. The price in foreign exchange markets held steady. But the British pound, a pillar of the international monetary system with the dollar, hit a post-devaluation low of $2.40265, or about one-quarter of a cent above parity.

The new gold rush was set off by reported maneuvers by U.S. and European central banks to block speculation in gold, and possibly divert it to the Paris market to put pressure on President Charles de Gaulle because of his reported desire to bring down the American dollar by raising the price of gold.

In Paris, the market for gold ingots ran dry for the first time in years, though prices continued unchanged. Dealers said they could supply gold bars of one kilogram, 2.2 pounds, only after a two-week wait. They attributed the delay to the need to smelt bars to satisfy demand.

But in London, cash buyers from abroad were supplied in the London gold market's traditional 12.5-kilogram, 27.5-pound bars. Much of the buying was channeled through Swiss banks, so there was no way of knowing whether this demand represented frustrated buyers in Paris.

Press reports Wednesday, later confirmed officially, said members of the gold pool—the United States, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Britain and Switzerland — had decided to scrutinize all requests for gold and would refuse to supply speculators. France has dropped out of the gold pool.

WORLD'S LARGEST MAGNET COMING

MONTREAL (AP) — McGill University is building what it describes as the world's most powerful low-temperature magnet, called the cryogenic super-magnet, at a cost of up to $1 million. When cooled to hundreds of degrees below zero by helium refrigerants, it is expected to develop a magnetic field a million times greater than the earth's pull, for use by science and industry.

English Comics Star In Review On CBS-TV

NEW YORK (NEA)—Michael Flanders and Donald Swann are unlikely candidates for the title of the world's funniest men, Flanders being a large, bearded man confined to a wheelchair, and Swann a mild-looking pianist who doesn't talk much but who mumbles a lot. But they are hysterically funny and also extraordinarily literate.

Swann and Flanders

They will be seen on CBS-TV on Dec. 18 in "At the Drop of Another Hat," a television version of the London and Broadway smash review. Whether they are explaining the origin of Stonehenge ("What's a henge?") or making the second law of thermodynamics easy to understand, they are urbane and civilized.

For television they did their entire show before an audience and then had the tape edited to the proper length. What was included was, according to Flanders, "the basis for a lot of talk, but the net result is that we do what they want."

Their comments on varied subjects best illustrate the men. On the acting Redgraves, Flanders said, "I started as Sir Michael's fan. Now it's a lifetime job just to keep up with the family."

On the difference between British and American audiences, Swann said, "We tend to be bilingual over there and we understand English and American."

On retiring, Flanders said, "Rather than retire at the end of my life, I take six-month periods now. One can never be sure of the other end, you know."

On youth, Swann said, "Some young people are getting very old."

Balsam Stars In Capote Play On ABC Dec. 17

NEW YORK (NEA)—One of Broadway's best performances is Martin Balsam's funny, sad, bewildered and very honest portrayal of an actor who will be tall, short, fat, thin, hirsute or bald, rugged or a weakling in the first of four short plays that make up "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running."

Martin Balsam

He's a versatile man, so much so that he will be heard as the voice of a computer in the forthcoming movie, "2001: A Space Odyssey." "The computer makes a mistake, so it is disconnected and they perform a lobotomy on it. Something goes wrong, and it ends up as a young computer screaming nursery rhymes."

Which takes care of Balsam's Broadway and film career and brings us to television. He will be seen on ABC-TV on Dec. 17 in Truman Capote's Among the Paths to Eden, a two-character play with Maureen Stapleton. It's the tale of a woman looking for a husband. She figures a cemetery is a good place to meet widowers, so she pretends to be a grieving widow. "It's funny, touching, diabolical and we went to Calvary Cemetery every day to film. Between takes I memorized the tombstones."

Balsam says it's hard to judge the merits of a work you are in, although he admits he "had chills" when he read the script for "You Know I Can't Hear, etc." "But if I knew the answers in advance then we would have a business—We Know the Answers, Inc."

AUTHOR TOO — As the wife of an idol of show business, you'd think Kathryn Crosby would settle into the easy-going and glamorous life a Mrs. Bing Crosby could have. But not this Texas-born beauty who is mother, actress, registered nurse, certified teacher, mistress of four homes, a sometimes model, and now, author of a book, "Bing and Other Things," written without a "ghost." The Crosby family is shown in this 1966 filer (L-R): Harry Lillis, 9; Mrs. Crosby; Nathaniel Patrick, 6; Mary Frances, 8, and Bing Crosby. (UPI Telefile)

TOYS FOR LITTLE BOYS — Captain Thomas Geer, commander of the Jacksonville Salvation Army, left, is shown inspecting an assortment of toys designed primarily for boys of all ages presented by Arthur J. French, president of Farmers State Bank and Trust Co. Ten cases of toys ranging from field glasses and drums to an assortment of rings for small children were unloaded at the Salvation Army this week courtesy of the bank. Capt. Geer said the annual Christmas program carried on with the support and cooperation of volunteers throughout the community should provide a merry Christmas for all needy families. "We always receive the most beautifully dressed dolls I have ever seen for distribution to girls in the needy families. This gift will help greatly toward filling the gap," the captain said. "We try very hard to supply each child in a needy family with some kind of toy item whether it is new or used. The boys between eight and 12 years of age usually do not fully appreciate the dolls and this will make a fine addition to the Christmas baskets provided by the Tree of Lights."

Baggy Pants Robber Holds Up Laundromat

A nervous baggy pants robber of the laundromat when the man held up the Adams Quick laundromat. "The other two students were at the washing machine about 7 o'clock Wednesday evening toward the rear of the day night and fled on foot with approximately $60 in bills."

The student said that at first he thought the man might have been under the influence of alcohol because he was shaking so noticeably.

City police, in cooperation with county sheriff's deputies and state police, began a city-wide search for the suspect. The hold-up is the fourth armed robbery in the city within the past five weeks. Others have occurred at Bates market, Sanders Texaco and Clark's service station.

The armed robber, who was wearing a dark sport coat, baggy gray pants, and a dirty suede-type shoes, paid no attention to two other MacMurray students in the building.

"He walked in and asked for a cup of coffee," Drager told newsmen. "He appeared extremely nervous."

"When I returned with the cup of coffee and was in back of the counter again, he pulled the gun and said, 'Gimmie all the bills.'"

The youth related that once he turned over the money to the man, he said nothing, but walked out of the door and started running east on College.

Drager said that he was at the counter, located at the front of the building.
